NEW CHURCH AT CHARLOTTES-VILLE.

What is perhaps the largest single transaction in Charlottesville real estate that has ever taken place there was consummated on Tuesday, when the property formerly owned by the late Oolonel William E. Peters, for so long professor of Latin at the University of Virginia, passed into the hands of Bartlett Billog, Chaoning M. Bolton, H. W. Hilleary, W. Minor Lile and James M. Page, to be held in trust by them for the use of the Episcopal Church to be erected in the university community. It is understood that this transfer came as the result of negotiations rou ning through nearly a year between Dr Sugh M. McIlhany, jr., the minister in charge of this church work, and the three sons of Colonel Peters, who owned the property. Dr. McIlbany stated that this change in plan was made with the advice and approval of a large number of the alumni who have been leading this movement. The property purchased fronts 142 feet on University avenue, 325 feet on Chancellor street. It is understood that the purchase of this properties and practible by the apportune erly was made possible by the opportune gift of $5,000 by an alumnus of the uni-

IMMIGRATION INTO VIRGINIA More people are coming to Virginia and buying land than ever in her history, and fewer people are leaving Virginis than ever before. Emigration has practically coased. Last year 2,000 farms were bought in Virginia by people from beyond our borders. Industrial experts say, that one homesecker during his life is worth more than $1, work alone, in one year The population of Virginia now is two million, baving increased five per cent during the past four years, which is more that any southern state. Virginia is today the richest state in the south, except Texas. Commissiones Koiner has asmost valuable handbook of over 300 pages, and well illustrated, giving a description of every city and county in the state in America and through Grea Britain.
